Beyond the Crisis:
Prospects for Democracy,
Development, and Security

From 15 to 28 August 2010, the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, in cooperation with the Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung, holds its tenth annual Bucerius Summer School on Global Governance (BSS). The original idea to create such an institution harked back to Henry Kissinger's famous International Summer Seminar at Harvard University. In the 1960s, Kissinger brought together emerging leaders from all over the world for a summer course of debates and lectures. Many of the seminar's alumni went on to become ministers, renowned academics, prominent journalists – leaders in their respective fields.

Out of this year's 263 Bucerius Summer School candidates – nominated by government heads, ministers, company CEO's, university presidents, media leaders and directors of international organizations – we have invited 59 promising business representatives, politicians and academics from 32 different countries – young women and men between 28 and 35 years of age who have already acquired considerable professional experience.

The overall aim of the Bucerius Summer School is to foster leadership qualities in young professionals by involving them in an international dialogue on current political, economic, social and juridical questions. Participants are inspired by – and learn from – distinguished speakers, well-known public figures in politics, business, academia and the NGO sphere.

Theo Sommer, Dean of the Bucerius Summer School and Editor-at-Large of DIE ZEIT, and Wolfgang Ischinger, Ambassador and Chairman of the Munich Security Conference, chair the sessions of the Bucerius Summer School. The lectures and workshops will be held at the Hotel "Le Royal Méridien" on the banks of the Alster in Hamburg, at the German Bundestag and the German Chancellery in Berlin, and at the Heinz Nixdorf MuseumsForum in Paderborn. Theo Sommer, Wolfgang Ischinger and Project Director Antje Uhlig with her team are responsible for the two-week program.

This year, we are honored to welcome back two former participants in the program as speakers: Jörg Asmussen (BSS 2001), State Secretary at the German Federal Ministry of Finance in Berlin, and Alastair King-Smith (BSS 2008), Deputy Political Counselor at the British High Commission in Pakistan, Islamabad. We are equally pleased to have won Vali R. Nasr, Professor of International Politics at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Takahiro Shinyo, Japan's Ambassador to Germany, Shashi Tharoor, Member of the Indian Parliament, for keynote speeches. The list of speakers furthermore includes Seyran Ateş, an attorney for criminal and family law, Kai Eide, former UN Special Representative to Afghanistan and Head of the UN Assistance Mission in Afghanistan, Jürgen Fitschen, Member of the Group Executive Committee and the Board of Directors of Deutsche Bank AG, Suat Kiniklioğlu, Deputy Chairman of External Affairs of the AKP in Turkey, Alamine Ousmane Mey, General Manager, Afriland First Bank, Cameroon, Jonas Moberg, Head of Secretariat of the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative, Jan Muehlfeit, Chairman Europe of Microsoft, Tariq Ramadan, Professor of Contemporary Islamic Studies at Oxford University, John G. Ruggie, UN Special Representative for Business and Human Rights, and the Czech Minister of Foreign Affairs Karel Schwarzenberg.

In the second year of the most serious financial and economic crisis since the early 1930s, analysts, governments and policy makers still try to draw the right lessons. The crisis has highlighted the urgent need to rethink the responsibilities of nation states and the business communities, their interplay, and consequently the importance and structure of international regimes and regulations. At the same time, climate change and resource scarcity, the volatile situation in Afghanistan and the entire Middle East, and a growing gap between rich and poor are equally pressing global problems which in their persistence question the adequacy of international institutions in place today. Western democracies, and the governance architecture once put in place on their initiative, struggle to effectively address these major global threats. The transformation of economies into sustainable zero CO₂ emitters is no more than a distant hope. So are peace and stability in Afghanistan and the containment of Al-Qaida. Regional powers in Asia, South America and the Arab world, meanwhile, create their own economic zones and strategic alignment systems to further their interests. In lectures and discussions, working groups and debates, this year's Bucerius Summer School will examine these developments and discuss the prospects for security and democracy in the coming years. The Bucerius Summer School has always been more than just a two-week high-profile conference. It is about building networks and enhancing cross-cultural cooperation of representatives from all walks of public life. To follow up on the annual meetings, we run an active alumni network. Roughly a dozen alumni chapters have sprung into existence worldwide. With the support of the ZEIT-Stiftung, graduates arrange regional follow-up seminars. These Bucerius Governance Talks have taken place in Paris, Geneva, London, Lisbon, Washington DC and more recently in Cairo and Belgrade.

Since 1971, the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, among Germany's largest private foundations, has been involved in the funding of projects in various fields of science and research, arts and culture, as well as education and training. The ZEIT-Stiftung was established by Gerd Bucerius, the founder and publisher of Germany's leading quality weekly, DIE ZEIT. Apart from the Bucerius Law School, the Bucerius Kunst Forum in Hamburg and other projects, the foundation runs a variety of international programs, of which the Bucerius Summer School is the most ambitious.

The Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung was established by the IT entrepreneur Heinz Nixdorf. The foundation promotes education, scientific research especially in the field of information technology, and projects devoted to the advancement of liberal democracy and public health. Its Heinz Nixdorf MuseumsForum in Paderborn is the world's largest computer museum.

The ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius and the Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung welcome all speakers and participants. We wish them fruitful discussions, new insights and valuable networking.
