Re-shaping the World:
Nation States, International Organizations,
Markets and Societies

From 16 to 29 August 2009, the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, in cooperation with the Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung, holds its ninth annual Bucerius Summer School on Global Governance (BSS). The original idea to create such an institution harked back to Henry Kissinger's famous International Summer Seminar at Harvard University. In the 1960s, Kissinger brought together emerging leaders from all over the world for a summer course of debates and lectures. Many of the seminar's alumni went on to become ministers, renowned academics, prominent journalists – leaders in their respective fields.

Out of this year's 254 Bucerius Summer School candidates – nominated by government heads, ministers, company CEO's, university presidents, media leaders and directors of international organizations – we have invited 56 promising business representatives, politicians and academics from 29 different countries – young women and men between 28 and 35 years of age who have already acquired considerable professional experience.

The overall aim of the Bucerius Summer School is to foster leadership qualities in young professionals by involving them in an international dialogue on current political, economic, social and juridical questions. Participants are inspired by – and learn from – distinguished speakers, well-known public figures in politics, business, academia and the NGO sphere.

Theo Sommer, Dean of the Bucerius Summer School and Editor-at-Large of DIE ZEIT, and Wolfgang Ischinger, Ambassador and Chairman of the Munich Security Conference, chair the sessions of the Bucerius Summer School. The lectures and workshops will be held at the Hotel Le Royal Méridien on the banks of the Alster in Hamburg, at the German Bundestag and the German Development Agency GTZ in Berlin, and at the Heinz Nixdorf MuseumsForum in Paderborn. Theo Sommer, Wolfgang Ischinger and Project Director Antje Uhlig with her team are responsible for the two-week program.

This year, we are honored to welcome back quite a number of former participants in the program as speakers: Rahul Gandhi (BSS 2005), Secretary General of the National Congress Party in India, Sachin Pilot (BSS 2006), Minister of State for Communications and IT in India, David Haeri (BSS 2004), Special Assistant to the Under-Secretary-General for UN Peacekeeping Operations, Muriel Asseburg (BSS 2003), Head of the Middle East Research Department of the German Institute for International and Security Affairs, and Rafael Daerr (BSS 2005), Head of Legal and Consular Affairs at the German Embassy to Iran. We are equally pleased to have won the German Federal Minister of the Interior Wolfgang Schäuble and former Federal Foreign Minister Joschka Fischer for keynote speeches. The list of speakers furthermore includes Jürgen Fitschen, Member of the Management Board, Deutsche Bank AG, Lotte Leicht, EU Director of Human Rights Watch, Alamine Ousmane Mey, General Manager, Afriland First Bank, Volker Perthes, Director of the German Institute for International and Security Affairs, John G. Ruggie, UN Special Representative for Business and Human Rights, and Sudhir Vyas, India's Ambassador to Germany.

This Bucerius Summer School takes place at a momentous point in time. In light of the financial crisis and the ensuing economic downturn, analysts, governments and policy makers try to draw the right lessons for the future. The crisis has highlighted the urgent need to rethink the responsibilities of nation states and the business communities, their interplay, and consequently the importance and structure of international regimes and organizations. The financial crisis could thus be a catalyst in fundamentally changing the international governance system as we know it. At the same time, there are fears that this „re-shaping the world“ will leave unaddressed other, equally pressing global problems such as the growing split in rich and poor within and between our societies, the ever more apparent effects of climate change and resource exhaustion, as well as the diminished opportunities for many emerging markets. In lectures and discussions, working groups and debates, this year's Bucerius Summer School will examine these issues and discuss the prospects for fundamental change in the coming years.

The Bucerius Summer School has always been more than just a two-week high-profile conference. It is about building networks and enhancing cross-cultural cooperation of representatives from all walks of public life. To follow up on the annual meetings, we run an active alumni network. Roughly a dozen alumni chapters have sprung into existence worldwide. With the support of the ZEIT-Stiftung, graduates arrange regional follow-up seminars. These Bucerius Governance Talks have taken place in Paris, Geneva, London, Lisbon, Washington DC and more recently in Cairo. Plans for further meetings in Belgrade and New York City are in the making.

Since 1971, the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, one of Germany's largest private foundations, has been involved in the funding of projects in various fields of science and research, arts and culture, as well as education and training. The ZEIT-Stiftung was established by Gerd Bucerius, the founder and publisher of Germany's leading quality weekly, DIE ZEIT. Apart from the Bucerius Law School, the Bucerius Kunst Forum in Hamburg and other national projects, the foundation runs a variety of international programs, of which the Bucerius Summer School is the most ambitious.

The Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung was established by the IT entrepreneur Heinz Nixdorf. The foundation promotes education, scientific research especially in the field of information technology, and projects devoted to the advancement of liberal democracy and public health. Its Heinz Nixdorf MuseumsForum in Paderborn is the world's largest computer museum.

The ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius and the Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung welcome all speakers and participants. We wish them fruitful discussions, new insights and valuable networking.

Genaro Arriagada is Senior Fellow at the Inter-American Dialogue in Washington DC. From 2000 to 2006, he was a Member of the Board of Directors of Banco del Estado de Chile. He was Ambassador of Chile to the United States between 1998 and 1999 and served as Chief of Staff of Chilean President Eduardo Frei from 1994 to 1996. He is a Member of the Board of Directors of the Universidad de las Américas, and consults several companies and international organizations.

Muriel Asseburg is Head of the Research Division Middle East and Africa at the German Institute for International and Security Affairs (Stiftung Wissenschaft und Politik, SWP) in Berlin. Her focus is on the Middle East conflict and peace process, German, European and US Middle East policies, and on political change and political Islam in the Middle East. She has lived in the US, Jerusalem, Ramallah, Damascus, and Beirut. Her expertise is reflected by a wide publication record. Prior to her current position, Dr. Asseburg worked as Project Coordinator and Deputy Head of the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung in East Jerusalem, where she was responsible for projects in the Palestinian territories with a focus on democracy support and institution building as well as for the analysis of current political developments.

Markus Baumanns has been the Executive Vice President of the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius since 2006 and is responsible for the initiatives of the foundation in the field of science and education and the projects in America and Asia. He is also Chairman of the Executive Board of the Bucerius Law School. He started his career in 1990 in the Press and Information Office of the German Federal Government. In 1995 he entered the German Foreign Service and served as diplomat at the German Embassy in Bogotá, Colombia. In January 2000, he started at the ZEIT-Stiftung as Program Director for international programs, press and public relations. From 2001 to 2006, he served as CEO and Provost of the biggest project of the foundation, the Bucerius Law School.

Jaroslav Bratkiewicz has been Director of the Eastern Department at the Polish Ministry of Foreign Affairs since 2007. Before that, he was Deputy Director of the Policy Planning Department, a post he held several times, from 2005 to 2006, from 2001 to 2003 and from 1992 to 1996. Mr. Bratkiewicz furthermore served as Ambassador of Poland to the Republic of Latvia for five years (1996 to 2001), and headed the Iraqi Policy Task Force in his capacity as Deputy Director of Africa and the Middle East Department (2003 to 2005). Before entering the Foreign Ministry, Mr. Bratkiewicz had worked in the National Security Office of the Chancery of the President of Poland and, from 1982 to 1991, wrote his doctoral and habilitation thesis in oriental studies and political science at the Polish Academy of Sciences.

Reinhard Bütikofer was elected as a Member of the European Parliament for the Greens/European Free Alliance in June 2009. Previously, he served as Chairman of the German Party Alliance 90/The Greens from 2002 until 2008. After studying Philosophy and History he began his political career in 1984 when he was voted in the local parliament of Heidelberg. As a Member of parliament of the State of Baden-Württemberg he served as the spokesman for financial policy. After heading the Green Party in Baden-Württemberg for two years, Mr. Bütikofer became Secretary General of the National Green party in 1998. In this role he considerably contributed to the formulation of the Party's new policies and principles. Mr. Bütikofer served in a number of commissions to his party's platform and became a key campaigner in different national and state elections.

Rafael Daerr joined the German Foreign Office as a diplomat in 2002 and currently serves in the German Embassy in Tehran as Head of the Directorate for Legal and Consular Affairs. On his previous post in Brussels between 2006 and 2008, he worked in Germany's Permanent Representation to the EU and as special adviser to Elmar Brok, Member of the European Parliament, during the Intergovernmental Conference negotiating the Lisbon Treaty. Earlier posts include the Task Force France, the Turkey Desk and the European Affairs Directorate in Berlin as well as the German Embassy in Madrid. He studied International Economic Law, Political Science and European Integration in Cologne, Paris and Bruges.

Sebastian Edathy has been Chairman of the German Bundestag's Home Affairs Committee since 2005. He is a Member of the German Bundestag for the Social Democratic Party (SPD), having been voted into parliament in 1998. Mr. Edathy began his career as Assistant to a Member of Parliament of the Federal State of Lower Saxony and later worked as Personal Assistant for a Member of the Bundestag. Between 2000 and 2006 he was Speaker of the SPD working group on questions concerning right-wing extremism. Between 2003 and 2007, he was Chairman of the German-Indian Parliamentary Friendship Group of the German Bundestag and since 2007 has headed the Parliamentary Friendship Group for Relations with the States of South Asia. He holds a degree in Sociology and German Linguistics from the University of Hannover.

Pavel Felgenhauer is a columnist at the Moscow-based newspaper Novaya Gazeta, which he joined in 2006. Prior to that, he worked as an independent defense analyst. He publishes on issues related to Russian foreign and defense policy, military strategy and arms trade. Before working for the Novaya Gazeta, he was affiliated to the newspaper Nezavisimaya Gazeta and served as a member of the editorial board and as chief defense correspondent of the newspaper Segodnya. After graduating from Moscow State University, Mr. Felgenhauer worked as senior research officer at the Soviet Academy of Sciences, where he also received his PhD from.

Joschka Fischer has been a key figure in German politics and the Green Party since the late 1980s. He served as Germany's Federal Foreign Minister and Vice Chancellor from 1998 to 2005. Mr. Fischer led the Greens to the center stage of German politics. From 1983 to 1985, he was a Member of the German Bundestag for the party for the first time. Upon his appointment as Minister of the Environment and Energy in the Federal State of Hesse in 1985, he was the first member of the Greens to assume a government post. From 1994 to 1998, he acted as Parliamentary Spokesman for Alliance 90/The Greens in the German Bundestag. During the academic year 2006/2007, Mr. Fischer was Visiting Professor at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

Jürgen Fitschen has been a Member of Deutsche Bank Management Board since 2009 and has served as a Member of the Group Executive Committee for the past seven years. After joining Deutsche Bank in 1987, he held executive positions in Thailand, Japan and Singapore, before becoming a member of the Global Corporates and Institutions Divisional Board in 1997. In 2001, he was appointed to Deutsche Bank Group Board of Managing Directors. In 2005, Mr. Fitschen became Head of the newly established Regional Management worldwide and was appointed CEO Germany. In this capacity, he is also Chairman of the Management Committee Germany. Mr. Fitschen is furthermore Member of the Supervisory Boards of Metro AG and Schott AG as well as a Member of the Board of Directors of Kuehne+Nagel International AG.

Rahul Gandhi is a Member of the Indian Parliament and Secretary General of the National Congress Party of India. He first won a parliamentary seat in the 2004 election from Amethi in Uttar Pradesh, a constituency with a population of 2.5 million, and was re-elected in April 2009. Prior to his election, Mr. Gandhi's specialization was in Development Economics, which he studied at Cambridge University. He has worked for four years as a strategy consultant with the Monitor Company, engaging in the fields of telecom, automobile, retail and energy industries. His work experience has given him a special interest in bringing the benefits of globalization to his constituency focussing on health care, educational opportunities, agricultural production and industrial development.

Stephen Geer is Vice President for New Media at OMP, a Washington DC based direct marketing firm. He was Director of E-mail and Online Fundraising for Barack Obama's presidential campaign, where his team mobilized millions of grassroots volunteers and raised more than $500 million in online donations. Before joining the Obama campaign in Chicago, Mr. Geer managed online organizing at the Center for American Progress, where he built support for progressive positions on issues ranging from alternative fuels to ending the war in Iraq. He has also managed online operations for the Children's Defense Fund and American University's College of Arts and Sciences.

Christa Goetsch became Second Mayor and Head of the Ministry of Education and Vocational Training of the Free and Hanseatic City of Hamburg in May 2008. She is a teacher by profession and studied Chemistry and Biology.
