A World in Flux:
Shifting Patterns of Power,
Governance, and Leadership

From 14 to 27 August 2011, the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, in cooperation with the Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung, holds its eleventh annual Bucerius Summer School on Global Governance (BSS). The original idea to create such an institution harked back to Henry Kissinger's famous International Summer Seminar at Harvard University. In the 1960s, Kissinger brought together emerging leaders from all over the world for a summer course of debates and lectures. Many of the seminar's alumni went on to become ministers, renowned academics, prominent journalists – leaders in their respective fields.

Out of this year's 224 Bucerius Summer School candidates – nominated by government heads, ministers, company CEO's, university presidents, media leaders and directors of international organizations – we have invited 58 promising business representatives, politicians and academics from 31 different countries – young women and men between 28 and 35 years of age who have already acquired considerable professional experience.

The overall aim of the Bucerius Summer School is to foster leadership qualities in young professionals by involving them in an international dialogue on current political, economic, social and juridical questions. Participants are inspired by – and learn from – distinguished speakers, well-known public figures in politics, business, academia and the NGO sphere.

Theo Sommer, Dean of the Bucerius Summer School and Editor-at-Large of DIE ZEIT, and Wolfgang Ischinger, Ambassador and Chairman of the Munich Security Conference, chair the sessions of the Bucerius Summer School. The lectures and workshops will be held at the Hotel Le Royal Méridien on the banks of the Alster in Hamburg, at the Commerzbank and the German Development Agency GIZ in Berlin, and at the Heinz Nixdorf MuseumsForum in Paderborn. Theo Sommer, Wolfgang Ischinger and Program Director Sascha Suhrke with his team are responsible for the two-week program.

This year, we are honored to welcome back three former participants in the program as speakers: Jörg Asmussen (BSS 2001), State Secretary at the German Federal Ministry of Finance in Berlin, Muriel Asseburg (BSS 2003), Head of the Research Division Middle East and Africa at the German Institute for International and Security Affairs, and Alastair King-Smith (BSS 2008), UK Provincial Representative for Punjab, British Mission in Pakistan, Lahore. We are equally pleased to have won Parag Khanna, Senior Research Fellow at the New America Foundation, Richard Burt, US Chair of the Global Zero Commission, Thilo Bode, former Director of Greenpeace, and Founder and CEO of Foodwatch, and Manfred Lahnstein, former German Minister of Finance and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, for keynote speeches. The list of speakers furthermore includes Peter Bofinger, Professor of Economics at the University of Würzburg and Member of the German Council of Economic Experts, Jürgen Fitschen, Member of the Group Executive Committee and the Board of Directors of Deutsche Bank AG, Michael Hange, President of the Federal Office for Information Security, Isabel Hilton, CEO of Chinadialogue.net, Ambassador Gábor Iklódy, NATO Assistant Secretary General for Emerging Security Challenges, Sunjoy Joshi, Director, Observer Research Foundation, Roland Kather, Lieutenant General, German Military Representative MC/NATO and EU NATO, Vali R. Nasr, Advisor to the Obama Administration and Professor of International Politics at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University, Celina Realuyo, Adjunct Associate Professor of International Affairs, Georgetown University School of Foreign Service, John G. Ruggie, UN Special Representative for Business and Human Rights, Takahiro Shinyo, Japan's Ambassador to Germany, and Wei-Wei Zhang, Professor of International Relations at the Geneva School of Diplomacy, and Guest Professor at Fudan University, Shanghai, and Tsinghua University, Peking. For the first time the Bucerius Summer School cooperates with the International Summer Festival at Kampnagel, an International Center for the contemporary representative Arts. We have invited the Indian academic Vandana Shiva for a public lecture together with the International Summer Festival.

The Summer School's topics will touch upon urgent challenges of our time: the future of the world economy, cyberwar, energy security, nuclear power and renewables, and the vision of a nuclear-free world. Debates this year will focus on various geographical regions. The situation in the Near and Middle East, especially the rebellions in the Arab World will come under special scrutiny, as will the challenges and prospects in Afghanistan and Pakistan. Participants will discuss implications of the rise of China and India as well as economic and political developments in Europe and in the United States. In lectures and discussions, working groups and debates, this year's Bucerius Summer School will examine these developments and discuss their impact on governance and leadership in the coming years.

The Bucerius Summer School has always been more than just a two-week high-profile conference. It is about building networks and enhancing cross-cultural cooperation of representatives from all walks of public life. To follow up on the annual meetings, we run an active alumni network. Roughly a dozen alumni chapters have sprung into existence worldwide. With the support of the ZEIT-Stiftung, graduates arrange regional follow-up seminars. These Bucerius Governance Talks have taken place in Paris, Geneva, London, Lisbon, Washington DC, Cairo and Belgrade, and more recently in New York.

Since 1971, the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, one of Germany's largest private foundations, has been involved in the funding of projects in various fields of research, art and culture, as well as education and training. The ZEIT-Stiftung was established by Gerd Bucerius, the founder and publisher of Germany's leading quality weekly, DIE ZEIT. Apart from the Bucerius Law School, the Bucerius Kunst Forum in Hamburg and other other projects, the foundation runs a variety of international programs, of which the Bucerius Summer School is the most ambitious. In October 2011 the foundation starts a new program together with the Observer Research Foundation in India. The Asian Forum on Global Governance in New-Delhi will take a close look at the Asian region and at the challenges facing the global community.

The Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung was established by the IT entrepreneur Heinz Nixdorf. The foundation promotes education, scientific research especially in the field of information technology, and projects devoted to the advancement of liberal democracy and public health and sports. Its Heinz Nixdorf MuseumsForum in Paderborn is the world's largest computer museum.

The ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius and the Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung welcome all speakers and participants. We wish them fruitful discussions, new insights and valuable networking.

Haki Abazi has been Program Officer for Western Balkans at the Rockefeller Brothers Fund since 2007. Prior to that, he served as director of the Kosovo office for East West Management Institute, Inc. He developed and implemented a wide-range of programs addressing critical issues in Kosovo during the transition period and has played an important role in the development of the Civil Society in the region. He has over six years experience in designing and managing development programs to support overall developments and increase the level of participation of citizens in the decision-making processes implemented through International Organization for Migration in Kosovo, Afghanistan and Indonesia. He was educated in Kosovo at Pristina University and has completed extensive training programs in the USA.

Nadia Arbatova is Head of the Department on European Political Studies at the Institute for World Economy and International Relations at the Russian Academy of Science in Moscow. She is furthermore a Member of the Russian Council on Foreign and Defense Policy and Director of the Foundation for European Integration. Other research foci of hers are terrorism and conflict prevention.

Jörg Asmussen is State Secretary at the German Federal Ministry of Finance. He started his career at the Federal Ministry of Finance in 1996 and held various positions, such as the Head of the Department for Financial Market Policy and Head of the Minister's Office. Before joining the ministry, he was a project manager at the Institute of Social Research and Social Policy in Cologne, working on European economic, social, and labor market policy. He holds a MBA from the Luigi Bocconi University in Mailand and studied economics in Gießen and Bonn.

Muriel Asseburg is Head of the Research Division Middle East and Africa at the German Institute for International and Security Affairs (Stiftung Wissenschaft und Politik, SWP) in Berlin. Her focus is on the Middle East conflict and peace process, German, European and US Middle East policies, and on political change and political Islam in the Middle East. She has lived in the US, Jerusalem, Ramallah, Damascus, and Beirut. Her expertise is reflected by a wide publication record. Prior to her current position, Dr. Asseburg worked as Project Coordinator and Deputy Head of the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung in East Jerusalem, where she was responsible for projects in the Palestinian territories with a focus on democracy support and institution building as well as for the analysis of current political developments.

Thomas Birr is Head of Group Corporate Development, RWE AG and currently responsible for the development of the strategy of the whole RWE Group. Having joined RWE in 1999 he has undertaken several management and board positions in the areas of key account management, sales and marketing. He also spent a period of time as CEO of one of the largest regional sales and grid companies within the RWE Group. Prior to joining RWE, Mr. Birr worked for the petrochemical contracting company Mannesmann KTI in different international positions within the fields of project management and sales. He holds a degree in Mechanical Engineering.

Thilo Bode is CEO of Foodwatch, a NGO dealing with transparency in the food sector. Before founding Foodwatch in 2001 he was Executive Director of Greenpeace International (1995-2001) and of Greenpeace Germany (1989-1995). In the nineteen-seventies and eighties he gained first-hand experience in planning, managing and monitoring infrastructure projects in developing countries with Lahmeyer International, Frankfurt am Main, and at the German Bank for Reconstruction and Development (KfW).

Peter Bofinger is currently Full Professor of Economics, Money and International Economic Relations at the University of Würzburg, a position he has held since August 1992. Since March 2004, he has also been a Member of the German Council of Economic Experts. Aside from these positions, he has also been a Visiting Scholar in the Research Department at the International Monetary Fund and at the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. His main fields of research are monetary and exchange rate economics, financial markets and economic reforms in developed and emerging market economies.

Richard Burt is a longstanding US diplomat and today serves as the US Chair of the Global Zero Commission. In 1991, Ambassador Burt successfully concluded a nuclear arms treaty as the US Chief Negotiator in the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks with the Former Soviet Union. Previously, he was Ambassador to the Federal Republic of Germany, and from 1977 to 1980, a national security correspondent for the New York Times in Washington DC. He gained his BA from Cornell University, and a MA in International Relations from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University.

Reinhard Bütikofer was elected as a Member of the European Parliament for the Greens/European Free Alliance in June 2009. Previously, he served as Chairman of the German Party Alliance 90/The Greens from 2002 until 2008. After studying Philosophy and History he began his political career in 1984 when he was voted into the local Parliament of Heidelberg. As a Member of Parliament of the State of Baden-Württemberg he served as the spokesman for financial policy. After heading the Green Party in Baden-Württemberg for two years, Mr. Bütikofer became Secretary General of the National Green Party in 1998. In this role he considerably contributed to the formulation of the Party's new policies and principles. He served in a number of commissions to his party's platform and became a key campaigner in different national and state elections.

Jürgen Fitschen has been a Member of Deutsche Bank Management Board since 2009 and has served as a Member of the Group Executive Committee for the past seven years. After joining Deutsche Bank in 1987, he held executive positions in Thailand, Japan and Singapore, before becoming a Member of the Global Corporates and Institutions Divisional Board in 1997. In 2001, he was appointed to Deutsche Bank Group Board of Managing Directors. In 2005, Mr. Fitschen became Head of the newly established Regional Management worldwide and was appointed CEO Germany. In this capacity, he is also Chairman of the Management Committee Germany.

Sandro Gaycken is Technical and Security Researcher at the Free University of Berlin. His main areas of research are the foundations of security and war, the connection between technology and politics, strategy and technology, cybersecurity, hacking, cyberwarfare, critical infrastructures, complexity and technology, societal and ethical consequences of information technology, technological surveillance and privacy, data protection, ubiquitous computing, future research and utopian thinking. Beyond that, he consults various civil and military institutions in Germany and abroad. Furthermore, he operates in policy panels on a federal and European level. He studied philosophy, mathematics, ethnology, indology, theoretical and experimental physics at the Humboldt University of Berlin. He received his PhD from the Institute of Science- and Technology-Studies of the University of Bielefeld.

Since 1997, Michael Göring has been CEO and Member of the Executive Board – since 2005 Chairman – of the Hamburg-based ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, one of the largest foundations in Germany. He is also Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Bucerius Law School and the Bucerius Kunst Forum. As one of Germany's philanthropic leaders, he is involved with numerous foundations and private organizations. Since 2000, he has taught as honorary profesor at the Cultural and Media Management Institute at the Hamburg School of Music and Theatre.

Michael Hange is President of the Federal Office for Information Security (BSI). Since the beginning of his professional career in 1977, he has been active in the area of IT security. With the foundation of the BSI in 1991, he was the Head of the Consulting and Support department. From 1994 to 2009, Mr. Hange served as Vice President of the BSI, from 2009 onwards as Deputy Director of the IT Director at the Federal Ministry of the Interior. Among his tasks were matters of IT security as well as international cooperation. He has been President of the BSI since 2009. Moreover, Mr. Hange is a Member of the Advisory Board of the European Network and Information Security Agency (ENISA) as well as of the steering committee for information technology of the German Institute for Standardization (DIN). He studied mathematics, computer science and economic science at Bonn University.

David Held has been Co-Director of The Center for the Study of Global Governance at London School of Economics (LSE) since 2003, and Graham Wallas Professor of Political Science at LSE since 2000. He is also Professor of Politics and Sociology at The Open University. His lectures and main research focus on rethinking democracy at transnational and international levels, as well as on issues of international justice and globalization. He has strong interests both in political theory and in the more empirical dimensions of political analysis. He holds a BSc in Technology and Management Sciences from Manchester University (UK), and a MSc and PhD in Political Science from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge (USA). He conducted post-doctoral research at Cambridge University, and has been Visiting Professor at Sciences Po in Paris since 2007.

Isabel Hilton is a London based International Journalist, and the CEO and Editor of Chinadialogue.net. From 2005 to 2007, she was Editor and then Editor-in-Chief of the openDemocracy.net. A Sinologist by training, she has worked for various British newspapers and as a Presenter for the BBC. In 1999 she also joined The New Yorker as a Staff Writer. She has reported from all over the world and written several documentaries.

Gábor Iklódy is NATO's Assistant Secretary General for Emerging Security Challenges. He is the Secretary General's primary advisor on emerging security challenges and their potential implications for the security of the Alliance and a Member of the Secretary General's senior management team. Before, he worked as Political Director and State Secretary at NATO. Between 1999 and 2009

he served two four-year terms in Scandinavia as Ambassador in Norway (accredited also in Iceland) and in Sweden. From 2003 to 2005 he filled the position of Director General for European Political Cooperation in Budapest. In 1996 he headed the Foreign Ministry's Security Policy and Arms Control Department and later, from 1997 through 1999 its NATO and WEU Department.
